

BIG BALLOON BURSTS NEAR ASCENT TIME

Disaster Prevents At- tempt to Ascend to Stratosphere

BULLETIN
Washington, July 12—(AP)—Hope for a new stratosphere attempt before snow flies was held by officials of the National Geographic Society today as they scanned incoming information on the break of the huge balloon this morning at Rapid City, S. D.

Keen disappointment over the second failure in two years was expressed by the group which maintained an all-night vigil in short-wave radio communication with the stratosphere camp.

Neither Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the society, nor Dr. Lyman J. Briggs, director of the National Bureau of Standards and head of the scientific committee on the flight, would say definitely however, that efforts would be abandoned for this year.

It was said that if it is possible to repair the ripped balloon or make a new one before fall a second attempt will be made.

Rapid City, S. D., July 12—(AP)—Disaster overtook the National Geographic Society-U. S. Army Air Corps stratosphere balloon early this morning as the giant bag collapsed from an unexplained cause exactly one hour before the scheduled takeoff at 5 A. M. (Central Standard time.)

No one was injured, but five men working on the gondola preparatory to lashing the metal ball to the balloon were forced to jump to safety. Guards also were forced to scatter quickly to avoid injury.

The top of the mammoth bag burst open without warning, permitting 375,000 cubic feet of helium gas to escape, definitely halting the projected flight.

No Explanation
Captain Albert W. Stevens, flight commander, said he had "absolute no explanation" for the mishap. He added that an investigation would be made but that nothing would be done until later in the day.

Spectators watching the preparations for the flight said the balloon ground ropes suddenly slackened and the top of the bag opened like a paper sack exploding. The helium rushed out in a blue haze.

Pending investigation the mass of fabric was left untouched in the middle of the big illuminated ring where the balloon was being prepared for the flight.

30,000 Saw Disaster
The flight staff, as well as spectators massed on the cliffs, appeared stunned by the shock. After the initial confusion the crowd, estimated in the neighborhood of 30,000 began to scatter.

Flight officials said an attempt would be made to reconstruct the accident as nearly as possible in an effort to determine the cause.

They planned to examine the fabric inch by inch to see where and how the break occurred.

Before the collapse the helium was concentrated in the top of the bag, which was inflated to only about one eighth its capacity. This was to allow for expansion in the sun's heat.

Mrs. Orvil A. Anderson, wife of a balloon pilot, rushed out on the field to find her husband after the accident. He was unhurt.

Described Mishap
Sgt. G. W. Money of the U. S. Army Air Corps at Scott Field, Ill., one of the men who was working on top of the gondola, described the mishap.

"I was working on a cross bar on top of the gondola," he said. "Suddenly I felt the ropes slacken. The next thing I knew the whole fabric came down on me."

J. P. Cooper of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation at Akron, O., makers of the balloon said he knew of no reason for the collapse.

Officials of the Geographic society, which financed the $175,000 expedition, would not comment immediately regarding the possibility of a later flight.

SOCIETY EXPLAINS HAZE
Washington, July 12—(AP)—A blue haze which seemed to burst from the top of the stratosphere balloon when it collapsed today in South Dakota was explained by officials of the National Geographic Society.

They said they believed it was caused by talcum powder which was inside the balloon. The powder had been used in folding the balloon to prevent friction.

Helium would not cause the haze, officials said, because it is colorless. Nor could the talcum have caused the accident.

The society, which is sponsoring

Rob Jail Garden

Tulsa, Okla., July 12—(AP)—The City jail garden has been abandoned because of thieves. We estimated the city spent 250 on the garden and harvested $5.15 worth of produce.

LAURA INGALLS COMPLETED TRIP

Became First Woman to Make Atlantic-Pacific Non-Stop Flight

Burbank, Calif., July 12—(AP)—Laura Ingalls today dreamed of new aviation laurels after conquering the transcontinental skyways in the first non-stop east-to-west flight by a woman.

The brown-haired, 120-pound aviatrix made the gruelling but uneventful trip in 18 hours, 19 minutes, 30 seconds—too slow for a record between the oceans.

As she rested after landing last night she mulled over tentative plans to attack anew the west-east flight which has balked her twice recently.

"I may try for a west-to-east flight for a record that way within a few days," she said.

Miss Ingalls brought her new $40,000 black-cowled monoplane to a safe landing at Union air terminal at 7:51 P. M. (9:51 P. M., Central Standard time.)

Flight an Ordeal
"Boy, what a long ride," she exclaimed, yanking a tiny beret off her head. "It was an ordeal and I'm glad I made it."

Leaving Floyd Bennett field at New York at 3:31 A. M. (CST), Miss Ingalls followed course over Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Chicago, Kansas City and on to the coast.

She was unsighted until she passed over Kinman, Ariz. Her plane was not equipped with a radio sending set.

She said she hit strong headwinds and an electrical storm east of Winslow, Ariz., which slowed her time.

Her contemplated return flight to the east will be her third attempt. Several months ago she left Burbank airport, determined to lower the Earhart mark, but dust storms forced her down at Alamosa, Colo. On a second try several weeks later, motor trouble brought her ship down at Indianapolis.

Says Utilities Companies Raised $300,000 in Effort to Prevent De- struction of Holding Companies

Washington, July 12—(AP)—Evidence that more than $300,000 had been spent by public utility executives in an effort to defeat the provision in the utilities bill to abolish "unnecessary" holding companies in seven years was received today by the senate lobby committee.

It came from Philip H. Gadsden of Philadelphia, chairman of a committee of public utilities executives, formed to oppose the abolition clause.

The fate of this provision, desired by President Roosevelt, still is in doubt. The senate approved

MRS. WALEY IS ONLY WITNESS IN HER DEFENSE

Says She Knew Nothing of Weyerhaeuser Kid- naping for Days

Tacoma, Wash., July 12—(AP)—The defense in the kidnaping trial of Mrs. Margaret Waley rested its case today with Mrs. Waley the only witness placed on the stand.

With a brief government cross examination of Mrs. Waley finished, John F. Dore, chief defense counsel, told the court the defense's testimony was ended.

United States District Attorney J. Charles Dennis immediately began a summation of the testimony submitted by the government in its effort to prove Mrs. Waley guilty of kidnaping and conspiring to kidnap George Weyerhaeuser 9-year-old Tacoma timber fortune heir, May 24.

Husband Not Called.
Harmon M. Waley, 24, husband of the defendant, who was brought here from the McNeil island federal prison where he is serving a 45 year term for his part in the kidnaping, was prepared to testify in behalf of his wife but was not called by Dore. Mrs. Waley testified that fugitive William Dainard, alias Mahan, and her husband were solely responsible.

She pictured herself as cowering under Dainard's threats of death and obeying implicitly his curt orders.

"I was scared to do anything else," she replied to a question of her counsel, on direct examination. Mrs. Waley's story provided the climax to a swiftly moving chain of events at her trial yesterday, which included the kidnaping as described by the young victim and a futile defense attempt for a directed acquittal verdict.

Victim Didn't See Her

She said she knew nothing of the abduction until some time after it happened May 24, and never saw the boy, who in his own testimony failed to identify her as one of the kidnapers. George said his captors were Dainard and Waley, the defendant's husband, who pleaded guilty and received a 45-year sentence in McNeil island federal prison.

It was under fear of Dainard and the influence of her husband, Mrs. Waley said, that she acted after she discovered the pair had kidnaped the boy and were holding him for $200,000 ransom, paid for his release eight days after he was seized.

DAMAGE SUITS RESULT OF CAR MISHAP MAY 24

Edward James, Dix- on Defendant: Suits Ask $15,000

Two suits for damages were begun this morning by Attorneys Dixon, Devine & Bracken, representing the plaintiffs against Edward James, defendant, scheduled for the September term of circuit court, for injuries to one and death to another in an automobile accident, May 24, two miles north of Walnut.

The plaintiffs are Miss Roseanna Friel, Amboy girl, and Thomas McGovern, Sublette, administrator of the James McGovern estate. James McGovern died as the alleged result of injuries sustained in the crash. Miss Friel is suing for $5,000 damages, and McGovern for $10,000, on charges of willful carelessness.

Miss Friel and James McGovern were riding in a car driven by Edward James the night of the accident. Coming home from a dance, James, the plaintiffs charge, insisted on driving at an excessively high speed contrary to the entreaties and warnings of his passengers to go more slowly. The car skidded when James, attempting to avoid an approaching car with glaring headlights, ran off the shoulder of the pavement onto gravel, and was thrown into the ditch. Miss Friel received bad bruises and lacerations on her arms and head, and broke her ankle. She was confined to her home for over a month. James McGovern suffered internal injuries which proved fatal.

Several other members of the Karn family, who were visiting on the Eder ranch, five miles south of here, and Eder and six children were reported missing.

The streams flooded Granada to a depth of a foot or two.

The Eder and Karn families were reported to have been in a house that was washed from its foundation.

Horner Delays Act- ion on Chicago Fair Bill Until Saturday

Springfield, Ill., July 12—(AP)—Governor Horner indicated today he would postpone until tomorrow the announcement of his action on the bills authorizing Chicago to establish a "permanent world's fair" on the lakefront.

The governor did not indicate whether he would approve the measures, advocated by Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago. It was known that he is preparing a message to be made public with his formal action.

On other major legislation sponsored by Kelly, the governor vetoed the Chicago handbook licensing bill and signed the proposals for a lakefront airport.

Acute Nostalgia

Washington, July 12—(AP)—Civilian Conservation Corps officials got a chuckle from this one.

A young CCC worker was returned to his North Carolina home to recuperate from "acute nostalgia," which means simply severe homesickness. Informed by letter of her son's ailment his indignant mother filed claim against the corps for damages, declaring her boy never had trouble with nostalgia until he left home.

MISERY CHISEL- LER IS CAUGHT

Particularly Vicious Ex- tortionists Held by Federal Agents

New York, July 12—(AP)—Federal officers held Alfred Wagner of Brooklyn today on a charge of extortion—the demanding of $465,000 in ransom from the families of seven missing persons.

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said the 38-year-old ex-convict was a "misery chiseler" who had no part in the kidnappings and other mysterious disappearances. Hoover asserted he was "particularly vicious" and "made the arrest of the real kidnapers more difficult."

Hoover announced the arrest in Atlantic City, N. J., last night, and Department of Justice men here declined to amplify his statement. It remained for city detectives to tell Wagner's wife, Rose, and their three children why he did not return home Wednesday night.

He had been seized at the ransom rendezvous named in letters demanding $75,000 for the safe return of 82-year-old Charles D. Towt of nearby Nyack, Towt, a retired broker, still is missing.

His Other Demands

Hoover said Wagner also had demanded the $200,000 ransom for George Weyerhaeuser of Tacoma, Wash., telling the lad's family to ignore instructions which ultimatum proved to be from the real kidnapers and led to the boy's release.

Other "chiseling" attempts which Hoover charged against the paroled Sing Sing prisoner included:

For Dorothy Ann Distelhorst of Nashville, Tenn., whose mutilated body was found while her father was trying vainly to contact the kidnaper in New York, $50,000.

For Mrs. Berry V. Stoll of Louisville, Ky., freed by her kidnappers, $50,000.

William Weiss of Philadelphia, kidnapped and slain, $50,000.

For Mrs. Ann Booth Gordon of Farmington, Conn., found drowned in the Connecticut river, $25,000.

Refuse Rapist-Kill- er Delay in Trial

Peoria, Ill., July 12—(AP)—Circuit Judge Joseph E. Daily refused today to grant any delay in the trial of Gerald Thompson, 25-year-old Peoria mechanic charged with attacking and murdering pretty Mildred Hallmark, 19, in a cemetery here.

The judge ruled Thompson must answer to the charge on July 22, the date set when the dark haired young defendant was arraigned. Thompson's attorney, Ben Thurman, argued that to bring Thompson to trial this month would not allow the defense adequate time to prepare, and claimed too that public feeling was so high against the prisoner that he could not be given a fair trial.

"I doubt if sentiment would be changed by September," said the judge. Thurman had introduced newspaper articles reporting the killing and calling Thompson "a cowardly fiend."

Smith, one of the signers of a bill to abolish the 45-mile-an-hour speed limit, told Judge John Gutknecht: "Your Honor, at the time I was pondering the speeders' bill, wondering if Governor Horner would sign or veto it, and I didn't pay much attention to my speedometer."

Said the court: "The bill was vetoed. Four dollars and costs."

THOUSANDS DIE IN CHINA FLOOD

Appalling Destruction is Disclosed in Fragmentary Advices

BULLETIN

London, July 12—(AP)—A Reuters dispatch from Hankow, China, today said part of the concrete wall protecting the Japanese concession there from the flood waters of the Yangtze river had collapsed and that the water rushing in threatened to flood the city.

Hankow, China, July 12—(AP)—Fragmentary dispatches from northwestern Hupeh province disclosed today that appalling destruction was being inflicted there by the Han river flood, with indications that 2,000 persons have perished in inundation of the city of Laohokou.

Chinese reports said the entire city was submerged, destroying 3,000 houses and making 10,000 persons homeless.

Another report said the town of Chaotien, 50 miles southeast of Ichang, was destroyed by the rampaging Yangtze river when dikes there collapsed, and only a few families survived, all other drowning.

Other Towns Destroyed
Another report said two unidentified towns on a river above Ichang were destroyed, the waters taking a heavy toll of life. Four hundred soldiers were reported among the dead.

The floods here took a sudden serious turn, increasing the threat against Hankow, when a small dike constituting the city's outer defense against the Han river's torrents, collapsed. It exposed the city's only remaining bulwark—the Chankung dike—to the full force of the flood.

The Associated Press correspondent counted 20 human corpses floating past the city this afternoon.

American Recruits Fliers to Take Air With Ethiopian Army

Grasse, France, July 12—(AP)—Hal Du Berrier, former American commercial air pilot, announced today he had recruited 12 American fliers to fight for Ethiopia.

Du Berrier said Maj. Granville Pollock, the famous veteran of the old Lafayette escadrille was aiding him to raise a force to form a nucleus for an Ethiopian air corps. He refused to divulge the names of the other pilots.

He said Emperor Haile Selassie would furnish the planes but he refused to say when he planned to go to Addis Ababa. He said that his party, he hoped, "will be greatly strengthened" in Egypt.

Baby Crawled Under Auto: Badly Injured

East St. Louis, Ill., July 12—(AP)—Betty Ann, 18-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Evan Renner, was seriously injured yesterday when she crawled underneath an automobile while it was being refueled at a filling station.

She suffered face and scalp injuries when the car pulled out of the station. Her father, who was working there, saw her lying on the concrete just after the car had left. He said the driver apparently was unaware of running over the baby.

At the hospital it was said her condition was satisfactory.

Dixon State Policeman Finds Man, Unconscious and Badly Injured, in Center of Pavement Last Evening

While returning from Chicago at 1:30 o'clock State Highway Officer Edward Mahan of this city came upon an unconscious man in the center of the pavement about half a mile west of DeKalb. Investigation showed him to be seriously injured as he was badly cut in a number of places, an Mahan loaded him into his car and returned him to the Glidden hospital in DeKalb.

After some effort physicians there restored the man to partial consciousness, and he said he was Richard Gogerty of Zeining, Ia. He could remember nothing of what befell him or how he got in the vicinity of DeKalb.

Later Officer Mahan learned that Gogerty had climbed into a west bound cattle truck at West Chicago to get a ride back home. The drivers of the truck discovered their passenger was missing when they arrived in Dixon. Their phone inquiries finally located their lost cargo at the DeKalb hospital and they returned to that city to aid him.

PURVIS, HEAD CHICAGO'S G- MEN, RESIGNS

Nemesis of Dillinger, Nelson and Others Quits Service

Chicago, July 12—(AP)—Melvin Purvis, nemesis of the country's most notorious public enemies, including the late John Dillinger and Baby Face Nelson, has resigned his position as head of the Chicago office of the Department of Justice.

Purvis made the announcement today, disclosing that his resignation had been accepted by his chief in Washington, J. Edgar Hoover.

He said his reason for quitting was "purely personal." He added that his resignation was not forced, but declined to answer questions as to whether he had had any differences with his superiors. "I've been thinking the matter over for some time and I decided it would be to my advantage to make a change," he said. He was asked if he intended to return to his former profession as a lawyer, but shook his head negatively, quickly adding, however, that "one can always change his mind."

Will Stay in Chicago

Purvis said he had plans which would keep him in Chicago, but that they were too indefinite to make any announcement at this time.

Daniel M. Ladd, who worked with Purvis in some of the most important of the criminal hunts of the "G" men, has been placed in temporary charge of the Chicago office, Purvis disclosed.

Purvis, a normally mild-mannered southerner, was the most dangerous nemesis of the desperado.

A youthful attorney who turned sleuth, Purvis had directed the relentless search that resulted in the death of "Prexy Boy" Floyd in Ohio, and he was his men who shot down John Dillinger in Chicago.

May Have Fired Shot

Whether Purvis himself actually fired the shot that laid Floyd low in Ohio probably never will be known—but he's a good marksman. He wouldn't admit that he fired the fatal shot at Dillinger in front of a north side theater last July 22, but men who were there said his gun barked first.

He had been chief of the Chicago bureau of the department of investigation less than three years but during his tenure he had brought in—dead or alive—some of the most dangerous desperadoes of the decade.

Purvis set the trap into which Dillinger walked. Acting on his alert signal, federal agents and East Chicago police closed in on the hoodlum and shot him to death. The perfect coup ended one of the greatest man hunts in history.

Dillinger Only One

But Dillinger's death was only another step in Purvis' anti-crime campaign. He was credited with rounding up most of the hoodlums who followed Roger Touhy and with sending Touhy, himself, and his three lieutenants to prison for the kidnaping of John Factor.

Purvis engineered the raid on a north side barber shop which resulted in the capture of Vern Sankey, temporary public enemy No. 1, charged with the abduction of Charles Boettcher, 58, Denver. Sankey committed suicide rather than face trial.

A few hours later his men rounded up Gordon Alcorn, running mate of Sankey, and saw him put behind the bars.

Is 31 Years Old

Only 31, slender, blond and serious, what few words he offers are spoken in a soft, southern drawl. He is a native of South Carolina. A graduate of a well known law school in 1925, he entered the government service three years later.

After holding posts in the Carolinas and Texas, Purvis was first placed in charge of the bureau at Birmingham, Ala. Transferred to Chicago, he plunged into the investigation of the collapse of Samuel Insull's power empire for which the former English immigrant was tried and acquitted on a mail fraud charge along with 16 others.

He was given command of the staff here on Nov. 23, 1932.

Pennsy Coach Gets High Opinion of His Crew

Coach Rusty Callow allows no one else to look down on his University of Pennsylvania crew, but he took that privilege himself in this spectacular aerial view. The Pennsy mentor, right, watched his oarsmen in action from the Goodyear blimp Volunteer as they stroked over the Marine Stadium course near Long Beach, Calif., while Capt. A. T. Golden Sun Shines Through the Golden Wheat

Even in the regions where drouth parched and burned the crops a year ago, scenes like this are assuring such plentiful crops this year that farmers are concerned about falling prices. Here as the sun filters through the waving grain tops, two men stand waist-deep in their 2000-acre wheat field just before harvest, discussing the outlook under a sky whose clouds are purely decorative and give no hint of rain to interfere with the cutting of the grain.

HEAT TOLL IN MIDWEST TALS 48 TODAY

Cooling Breezes Relieve Suffering During the Day

By the Associated Press.

Cooling breezes fanned the brow of the heat-oppressed middle west today, occasioning a precipitate drop in temperatures, but the east enjoyed no respite from readings which caused numerous prostrations and at least nine deaths in two days.

In New York City a suicide was attributed to the heat.

Propelled by a high pressure area in the north, cool air rushed across the baked plains states and penetrated south through Kansas and Missouri.

Oklahoma and Texas remained hot but would feel effects of the cooler weather shortly, A. M. Hamrick, Kansas City meteorologist said.

Temperatures in Kansas City remained above 80 all night until a shift in wind brought a refreshing drop to 68 and slumber to weary residents who had tossed in discomfort most of the night.

The midwest's heat toll was unofficially placed at 48, with many others prostrated. In addition 15 persons have drowned in recent days seeking relief in swimming.

Severe wind and electrical storms hampered wire communication in Missouri. A thunderstorm struck at St. Louis early in the day.

The average top speed of automobiles in 1926 was about 57 miles an hour today it is over 80.

SENATOR LONG'S ENEMY RESIGNED

Huey Now Has Virtually Complete Control of New Orleans City

BULETIN

New Orleans, July 12—(AP)—Presented with a formal request for his resignation by leaders of his own political organization, Mayor T. Semmes Walmesley today curtly refused to quit his office and reiterated his determination to continue his fight against Senator Huey P. Long alone, if necessary.

New Orleans, July 12—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long apparently has rounded out his Louisiana "dictatorship" by gaining virtually complete control of New Orleans. District Attorney Eugene Stanley, his bitter enemy, resigned last night, and State Senator Charles A. Byrne, a Long supporter, was quickly sworn in to succeed him. Supporters of Mayor T. Semmes Walmesley deserted him in the meantime to make peace with Long's administration, but Walmesley reiterated he was not going to "quit."

Six special sessions of the legislature, directed by the senator, wrote the end to local self government in New Orleans. The last one, completed Monday, took away Walmesley's city patronage and stripped the city of its tax collecting authority. The session also made District Attorney's assistants and clerical help appointive by the attorney general.

Assistants Desert
Stanley said some of his assistant district attorneys were already deserting him in the hope of obtaining reappointment by the attorney general.

He said he realized he could not "hope to efficiently conduct the office in the future with assistants and an office force disloyal" to him. "By freeing myself of the responsibilities of the district attorney's office, I shall be able to devote my every effort to assist in restoring constitutional government in Louisiana, which I now pledge myself to do," Stanley said.

Oscar R. Whilden, official of the statewide Anti-Long Square Deal Association, pledged Mayor Walmesley the "unanimous physical support" of the association.

OUR BEST FRIEND

By Joseph Fort Newton

"GOD is our best friend," writes Geoffrey Gilbey, sports editor of the London Daily Express, in a book of everyday sermons which a friend sent me. It is worth listening to a sports-preacher; he is just as reverent as anybody and he knows a lot about life.

My religion "is very simple," he explains. "God is the one friend who will stand by us through our lives, and not let us down. If we could all fix the idea in our heads that God is our Best Friend, we should be well along the way toward what we long for—a universal religion."

"Friendship is the whole of my life," he continues, "and I have found so much joy and comfort in this friendship that I want to tell others about it. God is a wonderful friend. He always listens to us. If we are really sorry, He is always ready to forgive us."

"God is always there," he testifies, "to comfort us when we lie awake at night, depressed with morbid thoughts or in pain. Let us cultivate this priceless friendship, and above all, let us impress it very deeply into the minds of our children. It is criminal not to do it."

"There is much we cannot understand in life," he tells us, "but we must always trust our Best Friend. He entrusts our lives to us, and we have got to bear whatever we are sent to bear. That is faith, which is as important to life as an engine is to a motor car. A car without an engine will not get very far—nor will any life without faith."

"If we find faith difficult let us begin by hoping, as hope is the stepping stone to faith. If we have no faith we can get it by humbling ourselves and asking for it. It is the gift of God, and if we do not accept that gift when it is offered, we cannot expect to possess it."

"We trust doctors," he adds, "who give us medicine when we are ill, but we do not trust the Great Physician, our Best Friend. When we pray we try to guide His hand, rather than let His hand guide us. Here is real religion, and he who obeys it will know nothing of fear, as the sports-preacher learned in the thrilling adventure of his life."

Roses Here Are "Banks of Beauty"

Many remarks have been made about the beauties of the rambling rose vines which adorn the fences, trellises, and porch of the P. X. Gehant residence on U. S. route 30 at the east city limits.

Tourists through Dixon have also viewed with admiration this magnificent floral display. Here is what George M. Smith, author of the column "Day to Day" in the Wheaton Daily Journal, says about the Gehant rose banks:

"The city of Dixon, so far as I know, never mentions one of its most beautiful attractions at this time of the year. We hear year in and year out about the beautiful Rock River and the famous drive from Dixon to Rockford, but you have to drive to Dixon to know that just as you enter the city the high banks along the highway are right now a solid mass of the most beautiful roses you ever saw. Some one who loves roses and flowers planted them there for everyone to enjoy. You may not want to make a special trip to Dixon to see this bank of beauty, but if you happen to be driving that way you will stop your car right where traffic will 'honk' at you, and because you are so overcome by the beauty of that bank of roses, you will pay no attention to the blowing of horns behind you trying to get you to move on."

"It's the most convenient stove I ever used!"

CONVENIENCE is another of the Seven High Points of "High-Power" Perfection oil stoves.

Although the word "convenience" means many things to many people, to housewives it means cooking without fuss and worry. Lighting a High-Power burner is simple, and you get action at once.

The stove's generous square top provides ample space for those extra utensils which are in constant demand while you're doing a rush cooking job.

When not baking, the grates over the two oven burners also provide emergency cooking space. With a Perfection stove it is not necessary to dash back and forth from stove to kitchen sink; since plenty of space is available on top of the grates.

You will never understand, though, just how convenient these stoves are until you see one in action. So call us today. Ask to see a "High-Power" demonstrated. You will be under no obligation.

ITALY'S AFRICAN AFFAIR MAY BE NO PICNIC

The very old and somewhat out-of-date empire of Abyssinia is about to fight with streamlined, modernized Italy, and if the sports fraternity were making book on the affair the odds would be at least 10 to 1, with practically no takers.

Yet the long shot does have a way of galloping home, occasionally, and if the views of an anonymous military expert writing in the London Spectator recently are correct, Italy stands a very broad chance of coming an inglorious cropper in the fighting in Africa.

This writer makes the point that Abyssinia is apt to be an easy place to get into, but a hard one to get out of. The Italian army, he says, ought to be able to drive its way into Addis Ababa, Abyssinian capital, without trouble; once there, however, its troubles would begin.

All the Abyssinians need to do, he continues, is to retreat. To catch and defeat them the Italians would have to cross a rugged mountainous country larger than Morocco—and it took most of France's great colonial army many years to make the Moroccans knuckle under.

Meanwhile, Italian communications would be in danger, and the upshot of it all might well be the starvation and slow disintegration of the entire Italian expeditionary force.

All this is interesting chiefly as a reminder that wars are seldom fought according to the textbooks. On paper, a modernized and well-disciplined army like that of Mussolini's should have no trouble at all with a horde of semi-savage levies such as Haile Selassie can muster. In actual fact, such encounters often turn out differently.

Augustus Caesar of Rome discovered this 1900 years ago, when Varus got the flower of the Roman army entangled in the Teutoburger forest in Germany, where the barbaric tribesmen annihilated it. Cortez nearly met the same fate in his first drive at the Aztec empire.

The British regulars were no match for the Pennsylvania Indians when Braddock was trapped near Fort Duquesne. The crack cavalry regiment of the U. S. army was overwhelmed when the plains Indians got it in a blind alley at the Little Big Horn.

You could cull a column or so of similar instances from the military histories, but the examples that have been given so far are enough to make the point—which is that making war on a horde of poorly equipped barbarians is a much riskier business than it appears on the surface.

Mussolini's troopers will need all the good generalship and the good luck they can command, if the African campaign is to be the triumphal procession it is expected to be.

HOW VETERANS FEEL

Europe is generally admitted to be drifting steadily toward war. How do the European veterans of the last war feel about it? As fighting men, do they welcome the approach of a new war?

They do not. Representatives of the war veterans of Germany and the allies met in Paris recently and passed a resolution calling for the maintenance of peace.

abolition of war-like policies and the settlement of international disputes by arbitration.

"The veterans of all nations are passionately attached to the maintenance of peace," they declared. "Men who incite war are not friends but enemies of their own countries."

There is a calm note of warning in this statement which the super-patriots of all lands, following policies that can lead to nothing but war, would do well to heed.

STILL A JULY FOURTH TOLL

Looking back at the Fourth of July casualties, the newspaper reader cannot help reflecting that we are still a long way from the "Safe and Sane Fourth" which was set up as our goal so many years ago.

As the peril of fireworks grows smaller, the peril of automobile traffic grows greater. The old swimming hole also claims its victims; and the firecracker itself, although less destructive than formerly, still takes its toll of maimed hands, burned faces and injured eyes.

To be sure, a vast improvement has been made. The Fourth is no longer the occasion for free-for-all hoodlumism that it used to be. The bang of explosives no longer sets the key for the whole day. But we are still criminally careless on this holiday. Each July 5th brings a long list of people to whom our merry-making has brought death or injury.

THE INDEPENDENT SPIRIT

Some sort of prize ought to be awarded to Erle P. Halliburton, president of an oil company at Duncan, Okla., for his announcement that his company will not employ anyone who has ever accepted federal relief.

Mr. Halliburton believes that no man who would make a good employee would accept a dole; and he adds that "if all industry will adopt a similar policy, I believe it would break up the government's relief problem."

It would do that, all right—no question about it. Unfortunately, it might also break up a great many other things—including, quite possibly, some of the prized possessions of employers who are still blind enough to think that a jobless man could go through four years of depression without calling on someone for help.

The bathing suits from Porter Pike were ones the Tines knew they'd like. "I guess I'll put mine on, right now," said Goldy, with a grin.

"It will not take me long to see if mine is big enough for me." Then she went to another room and quickly crawled right in.

The Tines smiled as she walked out, and then she heard wee Duncy shout, "I must admit that you look fine, but I don't want mine, now."

"I'm going to wait until I need less clothes, so I can show some speed in swimming. That's when bathing suits are best, you will allow."

"Well, put them on when'er you wish," exclaimed their friend, the dressed up fish. "I merely brought them out because the sea man told me to."

"Now, I must bid you tots goodbye, and quickly swim away, 'cause I keep things in order in the castle. There's a lot to do."

HORNER VETOES BILLS TO HELP RURAL HIGHWAYS

Kills Bills to Permit Use of Relief Funds and Labor on Roads

Springfield, Ill., July 12.—(AP)—The program of the Illinois Agricultural Association to develop farm-to-market roads with relief help ran afoul of a series of veto messages by Governor Horner yesterday.

Killing a series of bills to use relief funds and labor on rural highways, the governor said they would not help and might obstruct his "avowed plan to develop a secondary road system in Illinois with the current allotment of Federal funds, where both the work and the farm-to-market roads are most needed."

Horner vetoed four of the five bills introduced by Senator Martin B. Lohmann, Pekin Democrat, and Simon E. Lantz, Congerville Republican, at the request of the agricultural association.

The one Lohmann-Lantz bill signed provides a general grant of authority to local road officials to co-operate with relief authorities.

Would Have Killed IERC

In the veto messages, the governor pointed out that one of the bills provided that the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission would go out of business August 1 and might jeopardize another new law extending the commission into 1937.

Horner said he had no objection to the provision that at least half the relief allotments downstate be used on highways, if the program would be feasible, but was vetoing the bill because of the IERC restriction.

The others were held to be "wholly unnecessary and of no assistance."

Another veto message killed the Adamowski bill requiring that safety glass be used in all automobiles registered in Illinois next year for the first time. The matter, the governor said, was covered in the new highway traffic code sponsored by Chief Engineer Ernst Lieberman and signed yesterday.

Also vetoed was the Lyons bill to permit loads of trees more than eight feet wide to be hauled on the highways.

CHURCH NOTES

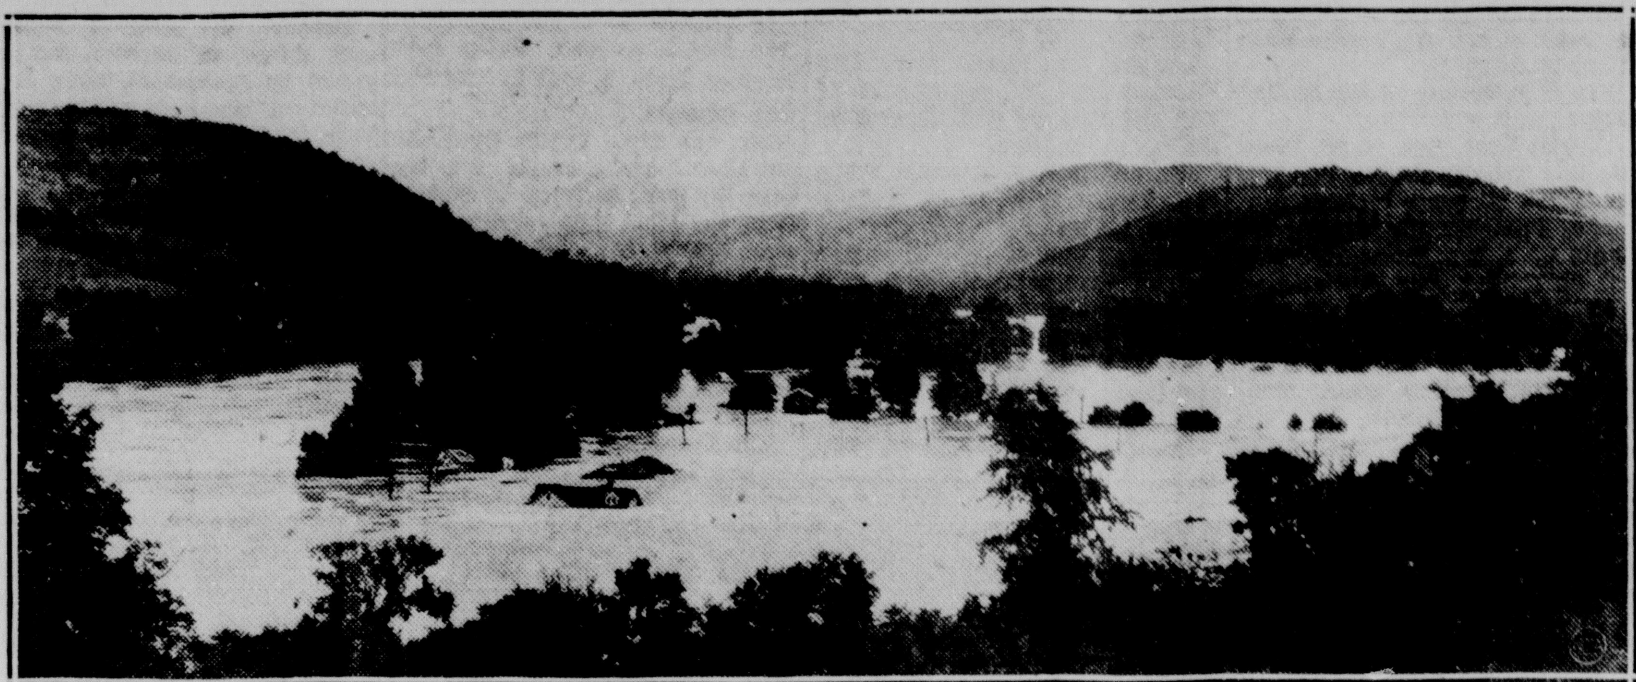

Sunday afternoon was a special day of rejoicing for the Amboy Lutheran Church, for ten young people were received into communicant membership through the solemn rite of confirmation. Rev. A. G. Seuchting is pastor of the church.

The church was beautifully decorated in roses and a variety of many colored garden flowers. The class of ten young people marched into the church to the militant strains of "Onward Christian Soldiers." Each one wore a white carnation. The choir rendered an appropriate anthem. The sermon reminded the congregation that confirmation was a day of joy not only for the class but for the congregation and church.

The confirmation service reached its highest point when the class knelt at the altar and by laying on of hands received the Church's blessings.

The members then partook for the first time of Holy Communion. The following were added to the church through the solemn rite of

HOUSETOPS POUNDED BY ROARING CHENANGO FLOOD

With little more than their roofs showing above the torrents pouring down the beautiful valley of the Chenango river, creating a scene of utter devastation, the farmhouses seen in this picture give striking evidence of the height of the flood that raged through New York state, taking toll of more than 40 lives and $20,000,000 in property. Seemingly by a miracle, these dwellings, located north of Binghamton, were not swept from their foundations by the deluge beating against their second stories. On knolls which were high and dry, only the tops of trees appeared above the water, which rose almost to the tops of telephone poles in some places. Back of the roaring stream are the hills to which hundreds fled barely in time to escape death.

GOOD THOUGHTS

You cannot make peace with documents; peace must be made in the hearts of men.

Herbert Hoover
Freedom and democracy begin at home.
Their foe is the spirit of violence.
Their friend is the spirit of justice and righteousness.

Wickham Steed
Is anything ever gained by fighting? Let it be clearly recognized, once for all, that in war, both sides lose. This is as true in labor wars as in conflicts between sovereign states. It is written of old that love—call it brotherhood, call it common humanity, call it common sense—is the universal solvent.

Minneapolis Journal
Wise observers are slow to place great faith in the fluctuating aspects of diplomatic negotiations, which may represent no real change in the hearts of the people. Even while welcoming surface signs of peace, one knows that parleys and pacts cannot bring it until it comes in the thoughts of the people. . . . Turning from anger, "the weapon mortals sway," from reliance on human cleverness and military might, to put their trust in the "God of peace," individuals and nations necessarily take on more of the love and justice which are His attributes—and the requisites of any permanent peacemaking.

The Christian Science Monitor
Behold, I have taught you statutes and judgments. . . . Keep therefore and do them; for this is your wisdom and your understanding in the sight of the nations, which shall hear all these statutes and say, Surely this great nation is a wise and understanding people.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO FIGHT TAXES

Calls President's Program Confiscatory and Destructive

BULLETIN

Washington, July 12—(AP)—Describing the president's new tax plan as one which would bring "redistribution of wealth" rather than wealth, the Ohio Chamber of Commerce today insisted it was "one of the six major menaces that hang over the country like a black cloud."

George B. Chandler of Columbus, representing the Ohio Chamber, made that statement at a house ways and means committee hearing on the legislation.

The other five "menaces" which Chandler said are "holding back recovery" were listed as:

1. The destruction of representative government by converting congress into a rubber stamp; 2. Fomenting hostility to our constitution and hatred of the supreme court; 3. The entry of government into private business on a huge scale; 4. The destruction of the rights of the states and centralization of power in Washington; and 5. Creating a race of mendicants, loafers and weaklings through abuse of relief and sentimental social legislation.

Washington, July 12—(AP)—A nation-wide offensive which business leaders are conducting against President Roosevelt's new tax plan drew expressions of apprehension today from some Democratic legislators considering the plan.

They foresaw a new shower of telegrams pouring down on Capitol Hill as the result of a country-wide distribution by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of a statement attacking the tax program as destructive, confiscatory and a "perversion of the taxing power."

Such a result, they feared, might herald a furious new struggle centering upon a Congress which has not yet finished with another titanic conflict—the one over the utilities bill.

Will Not Delay Plan
Meanwhile, Democratic leaders denied flying rumors that the President's plan for a "wider distribution of wealth" through high inheritance taxes, increased levies on gifts and large incomes and a graduated tax on corporate incomes would be delayed until a future session of Congress.

They insisted that the plan would be pushed through this session, as agreed upon in two conferences between the President and legislators in charge of the bill.

The Chamber will follow up its nation-wide action by sending representatives to a House Ways and Means committee hearing tomorrow to assail the bill.

"The urgent need at the present time," said a statement it sent to its 1,500 member organizations, "is not more taxes on income but more income to tax."

Taxes Are Too Heavy
"More income means more purchasing power for consumers, and more revenues for the government. Efforts to obtain restoration of the income that our people have enjoyed in past years are directly affected by the tax policies of government."

"In view of the shrunken income, the losses yet to be recouped, and the present methods of imposing taxes, the rates and effects of general tax policies now in force already bear too heavily upon the types of personal and corporate enterprise that must be depended upon to produce recovery."

The statement, drafted by the chamber's committee on Federal finance, contended that the President's proposals are destructive because based solely on the idea that large enterprises, estates and incomes should be taxed heavily merely because of size. Such an idea, it said, does not pay sufficient attention to the utility or economic value of aggregations of capital.

The World War broke out at a time when virtually all the great leaders were past their prime. Wilson was the youngest of all with his 58 years. Clemenceau was 73, Hindenburg 66, Kitchener 64, Foch 63, Molke 65, Sukhomlinoff 62 and Asquith 62.

That pay of supreme court justices cannot be reduced during their term of office is a provision of the Constitution of the United States.

Flood Is Great Fun for Pals

A flood is a disastrous event to grownups, but Jack Waigh of North Hornell, N. Y., thought it great fun when a lake formed in front of his home, giving him a chance to go rafting with his dog Bozo. SUN-TAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JO BROWN, finishing her first year in college, receives word that her father is out of work. Jo decides to look for a job instead of going home. She confides this to her roommate, TUBBY DAVIS, and to BRET PAUL, star athlete, to whom Jo is engaged.
Jo moves to a cheap furnished apartment. Her first day of job-hunting is discouraging but the second day she is hired for part-time work in a small marine supply store.
She is alone in the store when a man enters and asks for the proprietor. He leaves, promising to return later and says, "Tell him Douglas Marsh was in." Jo is curious about this stranger whom she thinks the handsomest man she has ever seen.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER IV

WHEN he had gone, Jo reflected that she had never seen a man quite like this Douglas Marsh. There was some indefinable quality about him that stamped him as different as a man among men. Naturally enough she could not help comparing him with Bret Paul. He was so much more certain of himself than Bret, so much more at ease with the world.

"But that's only because he's older," Jo told herself. "I'm used to being with college men. There's probably nothing unusual about this Marsh person at all. I'll probably discover that he's a salesman wanting to sell Mr. Brown an order of—of something or other."

Yet when Mr. Brown returned from lunch and Jo told him that Douglas Marsh had been in, he raised his eyebrows and said, "Marsh? Is that so? I wonder what he's got up his sleeve this time?"

"Is he a pretty good customer?" Jo asked. "He said he'd known you for a long time."

"I'll say he's a good customer! Haven't you ever heard of Douglas Marsh?"

"No, I'm afraid I haven't." Mr. Brown chuckled. "Well, when he comes around you want to perk up and do your best smiling. Young Marsh is the richest bachelor around these parts. I've sold him plenty of stuff since he grew into long trousers. Why, he buys a new yacht just about whenever the old one gets a little wet!"

"He must be a silly person, then," Jo said, laughing. "Don't you think it. Plenty of young fellows would have gone absolutely crazy if they'd been left as much money as old man Marsh left Douglas. But young Marsh kept his head, and he tries to spend his money where it'll do the most good. Trouble is, every time he invests in something it goes ahead and makes him some more money. He's like his old man that way."

ONCE a familiar name came to Jo as Brown rattled on. A name she had read in the newspapers as a child, a name she'd heard her father mention more than once.

"Is he the son of Aaron Marsh who died a few years ago?" Brown nodded. "That's the one. The old lady is still living. They say she's mighty hard to get along with and she pesters young Marsh some when he's home. But he manages to spend a lot of time here, there and everywhere. I wonder if he's figuring on a new boat?"

It was not long before Mr. Brown had the opportunity to allay his curiosity, for in a few minutes Douglas Marsh returned. He walked in briskly and wrung Brown's hand.

"It's certainly fine to see you again, Walt!" Marsh exclaimed. "I thought it was about time you came around again, Douglas. What kind of a ship is it to be this time? A 100-foot Diesel yacht for a South Sea voyage?"

Marsh laughed. "No yacht at all. I want half a dozen small sailing sloops, and maybe two or three speed boats."

Brown looked at him incredulously. "What are you going to do now? Open an amusement park?"

"You've come near it, at that, Walt. Let's go back in the office and I'll tell you the story."

Jo was just putting on her hat when the two entered the little office.

"It's 12, Mr. Brown. Will you be needing me?" Douglas Marsh turned to Brown. "I'm in a rush this morning, Walt, and I'd really like to place some orders. Do you suppose we might need the young lady to look up things in the catalogs?" He paused, smiling at Jo. "I know Mr. Brown dislikes to ask you to stay on your very first morning, but if—"

DOUGLAS MARSH took out his cigarette case and held it toward Jo. "This ogre of an employer

"I had no idea it was so late," exclaimed Marsh, looking at his watch. "Won't you let me take you to lunch?"

DOUGLAS MARSH took out his cigarette case and held it toward Jo. "This ogre of an employer can't object if you smoke now," he said. "It's really not during your office hours."

Jo smiled. "But I'm still working."

Marsh offered cigarettes to Brown, carefully lighting one of his own. "I'll tell you briefly," he said, exhaling a pillar of smoke, "what I have in mind. I've purchased Crest Lake and considerable acreage around it, Walt. Ever been down there?"

Brown nodded. "Most beautiful place in the state, to my way of thinking." He was evidently not at all astonished that Marsh should have purchased Crest Lake; but Jo could only gasp mentally. Once on a motoring trip with her mother and father she had had a glimpse of the broad and startlingly beautiful expanse of inland water.

"Had the devil's own time getting a clear title," Marsh confessed, "and I had to pay several kinds of prices for some of the land around. But everything's in order now."

"But why do you want two or three speed boats and half a dozen sail boats?" Brown inquired. "You can't be in more than one at a time, Douglas."

"Oh, this isn't just for me. I'm going to have a summer colony there. I've already built an inn, and by the end of the month there'll be two dozen small cottages completed. I want these boats for the guests."

Every day for the last six years Dr. John D. Brock of Kansas City, Mo., has taken his plane aloft to prove that daily flight is possible regardless of weather conditions.

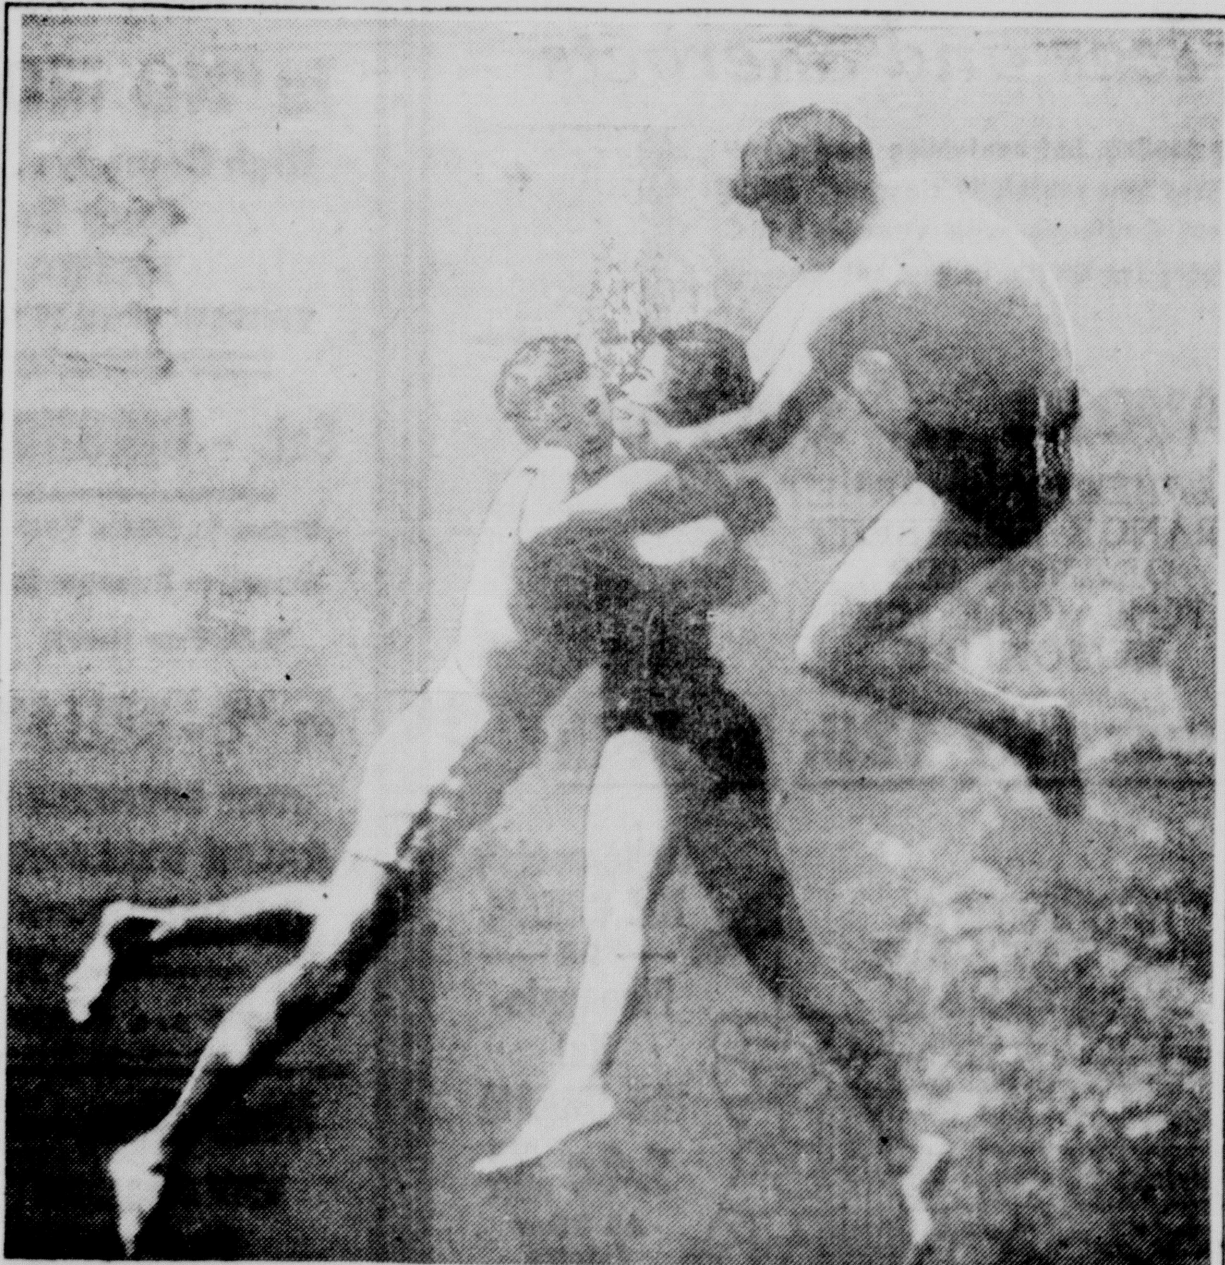

Since 1920 the average price of motor fuel has been reduced 60 per cent, while taxes on fuel have increased approximately 6000 per cent.

A search into the records of 33 village police departments on Long Island, N. Y., revealed that 10 per cent of the drivers involved in accidents were repeaters.

After you have that auto accident do you not wish you had one of the Dixon Telegraph's Accident $10,000 Accident Insurance Policy. It costs but $1.40 for a year's protection.

Remarkable Underwater Photographs Teaching Three Timely Lessons in Lifesaving

Camerman Goes Into Deep Water at Silver Springs, Florida, and Brings Back First Pictures of Rescue Methods

Study these graphic under-water scenes, each a lesson in life-saving, and you may be able to help save some of the 8000 Americans who, statistics indicate, are doomed to drown this year. Here, a "drowning victim," left, has his would-be girl rescuer in a front chest stranglehold. To break the "death grasp," a life guard places his right foot against the "drowning" man's neck, grasps the girl's chin with his left hand, and proceeds to pry the two apart.

In this Red Cross picture, a woman lifesaver shows you what to do if, in trying to save a drowning man, he should grasp your wrists. Pulling back from the struggling "victim," the girl rescuer places her leg on his neck. Then, with the leverage thus obtained, she is enabled to push him away and break his grip on her wrists, and to try for another hold which will permit her to seize him in such a way that she can tow him to the surface, and bring him to shore.

In this scene, the feminine lifesaver reveals the best way to approach and take hold of a drowning man. Note how she has maneuvered him in front of her, and has seized his wrist. It is now impossible for him to reach her in his frantic struggles. At the same time, she is in a position to draw him up in front of her, place her left hand around his chest and, after she has reached the surface with her burden, strike out with her right hand for shore.

Dixon Golfers Win Second Place in Lincoln Highway Tournament; Here Next Year

Annual Meeting Was Won by DeKalb Team on Own Grounds

Seven Bout Card For Boxing Fans On Books Tonight

The Lincoln Highway golf tournament, played at the Kishwaukee club in DeKalb Wednesday and Thursday, was won by the home team with a score of 175 up, the young Dixon Country club team finishing second with 153 up.

The tournament which ended yesterday consists of 72 holes match play against an arbitrary score called "Bogey" which on the Kishwaukee course is 42 for nine holes. A player who wins more holes from "Bogey" than he loses in any nine holes is therefore so many "up on Bogey" for the round, and this method of scoring is used in determining the individual and team records.

Dixon Players' Scores
Final individual standings of Dixon players:
K. Detweiler 29 up
F. Henry 23 up
D. Rogers 21 up
D. Raymond 20 up
H. Lazier, Jr. 19 up
R. Durkin 18 up
E. Rorer 16 up
W. Dysart 7 up

W. Dysart played the second day in the position filled by Dr. H. A. Lazier and L. G. Rorer on the opening day of the tournament.

First prize for best individual score went to Dee Hunt of Kishwaukee with 34 up. Tied with a teammate, Wildenrodt, at the end of 72 holes, Hunt won the first hole of the playoff with a birdie 3.

Position Prizes
Eight "position prizes" were awarded players in each of the eight positions on the teams, whose records excel those of all other players in the same relative positions. Don Raymond and Harry Lazier playing seventh and eighth positions for Dixon, each won one of these flight prizes by defeating all other seventh and eighth position players. Em Rorer, playing in the sixth position, was tied with Huhta of Kishwaukee at the end of 72 holes, but lost by one stroke in a nine-hole play-off.

Dixon Country club's invitation to the Association to play the Lincoln Highway Tournament at Dixon in July, 1936 was accepted. O. M. Rogers was elected president and W. W. Dysart was elected secretary and treasurer of the association to serve during the coming year.

The first automobile license was issued to Elwood Haynes of Kokomo, Ind.

ACID IN KIDNEYS BRINGS OLD AGE

Those Sharp Pains, Nightly Rising And Swelling of Lower Limbs Now Relieved By A New Medicine That Has Diuretic Action On Afflicted Kidneys

Medical authorities agree that kidney disorders make us old before our time but there is a way to obtain blessed relief. A notable discovery has been made; it's called Indo-Vin which is now being introduced to the public daily here in Dixon at the Ford-Hopkins Drug Store. It was unknown in this city a few weeks ago, but today the people of Dixon are using hundreds of bottles and it is helping many who had never been really helped before by ANY medicine.

HOW IT ACTS
Indo-Vin is taken shortly after meals and mixes with the food in the stomach, flushing out quantities of impurities that have become dammed up inside, causing headache, sharp pains and getting up at night. Cleansing out these impurities permits the kidneys to do their work properly and gives actual relief from bladder irritation and weakness, spots before the eyes, swelling of ankles and even rheumatic pain. Indo-Vin also has a great cleansing action upon the stomach, liver and bowels, thus it is beneficial to the system in general.

While Indo-Vin is being introduced in Dixon every suffering person can take it at the small cost of only a few cents a day. So if kidneys are stagnant or similar disorders are ruining your life, it would certainly be a mistake not to try it.

Indo-Vin is now being introduced to the public daily here in Dixon, at the Ford-Hopkins Drug Store. Also being sold in all the nearby towns by every good druggist throughout this whole section.

CHICAGO GIRL HOLDS WOMEN'S WESTERN TITLE

Dudley Scored 6-4 Victory Over Ellamae Williams

Chicago, July 12—(AP)—Eleanor Dudley, one of the most promising of Chicago's younger feminine golfers, today owned the two big prizes from the 16th annual Women's Western junior tournament—the title and the qualifying medal.

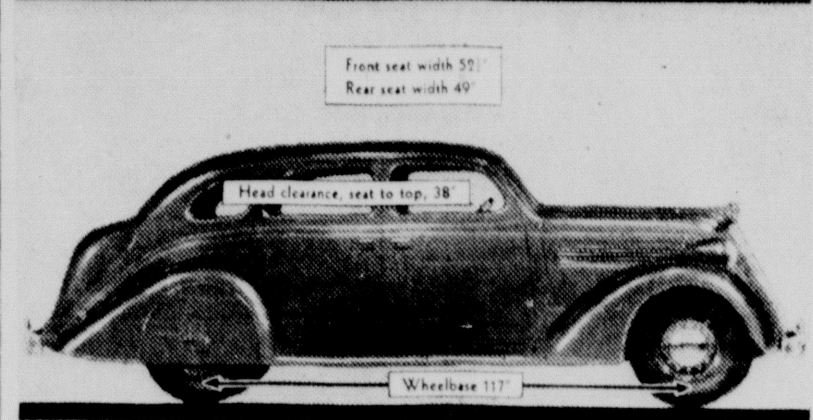

She scored a 6 and 4 victory over Ella Mae Williams, daughter of a Chicago district professional, in the final round at the Westmoreland Country club, and last Monday chalked up an 81 for medal honors.

Virginia Lindblad of Joliet defeated Betty Mackemer of Peoria, 5 and 4, to win the championship consolation, and Josephine Soucek of Chicago, had the same margin over Margaret Mary Lane of Kankakee, in the first flight final. Mary Shiverick of Chicago conquered Ann Whyte of Kenosha, Wis., 4 and 3, for second flight honors, while Billie Kerr, Galena, defeated Elizabeth Schiele, also of Galena, in the second flight consolation.

Actual tests have shown that with the average car and on the average highway, a motorist traveling at 40 miles an hour will get four more miles to the gallon than will the motorist traveling at 50 miles an hour.

If a transport pilot should stay off an airway for three months, his authority to fly over it is automatically canceled.

PARKER EKES OUT ANOTHER NET VICTORY

Continues To Show Shaky Form In Semi-Final

Spring Lake, N. J., July 12—(AP)—The east, south and southwest were represented today among the semi-finalists in the third annual Spring Lake invitation tennis tournament.

Frankie Parker of Spring Lake, the defending champion, and J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., represented the east while the colors of the other two sections were carried by Wilbur E. Hess of Port Worth, Tex., and Charles Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla.

Parker scraped through a 7-5, 8-6 victory over Harold Surface of Kansas City to gain the semi-final round.

Parker's semi-final opponent, Hess, gave a fast and convincing exhibition in disposing of Bernard T. Welch of Rockville, Md., 6-2, 6-4. Harris won with similar ease from Herbert L. Bowman of New York, 6-3, 6-4, but Hall was carried three sets before defeating William B. Reese of Atlanta, 5-7, 6-1, 6-3.

BUSTER BROWNS FALL UNDER DELUGE OF BINGLES

Surrender First Place in Soft Ball League Last Evening

The Clothiers softball team brandished wicked bludgeons Thursday night, as they stampeded over the Buster Browns 10 to 5 and appropriated the Shoe Co.'s share of first place for undisputed possession of the honor. In the opening game the Winks Specials rallied in the seventh to beat the Reynolds Wires 4 to 3 and add their second victory in 11 games to their record.

One of the most savage first-inning batting attacks in local softball history obliterated the Browns from the victory picture last night. Leading off with Underwood's single, and climaxed by Ken Hasselberg's home run as clean-up man, over half the entire Clothiers batting order swung around the bases with tornado speed. Only four out of the ten failed to score. Flanagan fled out to short. Withers fled out to left field, and Potts was stranded aboard. J. Burke struck out.

Left Six Runs

This cyclone of hits and runs left six runs and four hits in its wake before the Browns could even get started. The Greens continued to add hits and runs with methodical efficiency until the end of the game. The Browns managed to corral their rampaging rivals in the last three frames and from the second inning on, Fordham controlled his delivery well enough to scatter the remaining hits of the hot Clothiers, allowing none in each stanza.

The Browns clubbers woke up in the fifth inning scoring a run when Wolford doubled Fordham home. In the sixth Shires knocked a home run, and the losers counted three runs in the seventh, climaxed by Cook's home run in his third trip after fanning out his first two times at bat. The Shoe men were guilty of eight errors in a bad case of butterfingers which ruined their game.

WINKS UPSET DOPE, 4-3

The Winks Specials, sporting the services of C. Daniels on the mound applied pressure in the seventh inning by three runs and eked out a 4 to 3 victory over the Reynolds Wires, Thursday evening.

Daniels' offerings, except for their initial wildness, resembled those of Adolph Feldtang the opposing pitcher. After a shaky beginning in which he gave two hits, Daniels managed to keep the Wires crew down to five runs for the game. The Winks last three scores resulted from a double by Buchanan bringing home McReynolds, and a single by Hunt scoring R. Daniels. In the fourth inning Hunt's double scored McReynolds.

Sy Winebrenner brought home the Reynolds third tally, and the first two were made in the opening frame. Daniels filling the bases by his wild pitching and forcing McConaughy to walk home.

INDIANS SHOW POOREST FORM TIGERS GAME

Plunge Into Fourth Place Result of Defeat

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer.

The Cleveland Indians, still highly regarded as contenders for the American league pennant, are showing a strange lack of consistency for a club which has hopes of winning a world series berth.

Apparently safe in second place at the end of June after winning eight out of nine games, the Indians dropped eight in a row just as Detroit's Tigers got off on a ten-game winning streak. As a result the Tribe was plunged into fourth place and even that became somewhat shaky yesterday as the Indians took an 8 to 1 drubbing from the Yankees and the Boston Red Sox divided a double header.

That loss, the ninth in ten games, left the Indians only two percentage points ahead of the Sox. The only Indian run was an unearned one in the first inning and from there on Johnny Allen mowed them down, giving only six hits and fanning nine. The Yanks belted Mel Harder for 13 blows before he retired in the eighth.

Came From Behind

The Red Sox came from behind in the ninth to take the opener of their bargain bill with the Chicago White Sox, 4 to 3, behind Lefty Grove's five-hit flinging. They were sunk 10 to 12, however, in the afterpiece when Zeke Bonura hit his 16th and 17th homers to drive in five runs.

The Tigers tightened their hold on second place by rallying to beat Washington 7 to 6 in ten innings after Schoolboy Rowe had been hammered for six runs in the third. An error by Buddy Myer finally led to the deciding run.

The defeat returned the Senators to seventh place as the Athletics split a twin bill with the Browns, winning the opener 7 to 3 behind Whitey Wilshire but taking a 9 to 6 beating in the nightcap despite two circuit swats by Jimmy Fox.

The Giants, National league leaders, turned back the Pirates 4 to 2 as Roy Parmelee pitched four, hit ball for his tenth victory of the season. Mel Ott socked his 19th homer for the first Giant tally.

Monopolized Play

Americans in general monopolized the play although some of the favored players from below the border failed to live up to expectations. Byron Nelson of Ridgewood, N. J., and "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn of New York were bracketed with three others at 72; Denny Shute of Chicago and Gene Kunes of Jeffersonville, Pa., carded 73s.

Sam Parks, Jr., of Pittsburgh, the reigning American Open king, started out with a 35 and finally pulled up with a 75. Jimmy Thomson of Ridgewood, N. J., who finished second to Parks in the open, and Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., big money winner of the American winter circuit, were the biggest disappointments among the invaders. Thomson finished with a 76 and Picard took 77.

The six Japanese players scored in the 70's.

MANGRUM'S ONE UNDER PAR GOLF GOAL OF RIVALS

Hagen, U. S. Ryder Cup Team Captain Has Good 71 Score

Pontheill, Ont., July 12—(AP)—Tall and slender Ray Mangrum of Pittsburgh, Pa., was the target today for 150 domestic and foreign amateur and professional golfers in the second round of the $5,600 72-hole General Brock Hotel tournament.

Mangrum, who tied for fourth place in the American Open championship at Oakmont last month, captured the lead in the first round yesterday with a one-under-par 69. Only Clarence Doser of Rochester, N. Y., and Bobby Burns of Montreal succeeded in matching Mangrum's figures to tie for second place.

Walter Hagen, who will captain the American Ryder Cup team this year for the fourth time, grabbed fourth place with 71, which but for couple of lapses on the second nine might easily have been a 69.
